Professor Lewis Edwin Theiss

of the Class of 1902 and since 1924 the Professor of Journalism of Bucknell University, whose loyalty and love for Bucknell have been exemplified in his life at college and in the years following his graduation, this L'Agenda is respectfully and appreciatively dedicated by the Class of 1928.

LEWIS EDWIN THEISS, LITT.Do.

Professor of Journalism

PROFESSOR LEWIS EDWIN THEISS, journalist, free-lance writer, author, and professor of journalism, was born in Birmingham. Connecticut. In 1898 he matriculated at Bucknell and was graduated with the Class of 1902. His college record shows achievement in the athletic, musical, and journalistic fields. In track he was one of the mainstays of the team, specializing in the high jump and the pole vault. He was captain of the team in his junior year. In pole vaulting he equalled the college record in his freshman year, and at graduation held a record that was unbroken for twenty years. He was Bucknell correspondent for three metropolitan newspapers and an editor of the college weekly. L'Agenda of 1902 was published under his able editorship.

After graduating from college Professor Theiss became a member of the staff of the New York Sun, a newspaper on which he worked from 1902 to 1912. Then he entered the ranks of free-lance writers, contributing articles to many magazines and newspapers and occupying at different periods department editorships on the Pictorial Review. Good Housekeeping, and the People's Home Journal.

The World War found Professor Theiss associated with the National War Garden Commission, where he edited the publications of that body. When the movement for prohibition was under way, he investigated drink conditions in American colleges for The Ladies' Home Journal. He studied for the Pictorial Review, prior to the passage of the national suffrage amendment, the working of equal suffrage in the eight western states then having equal suffrage.

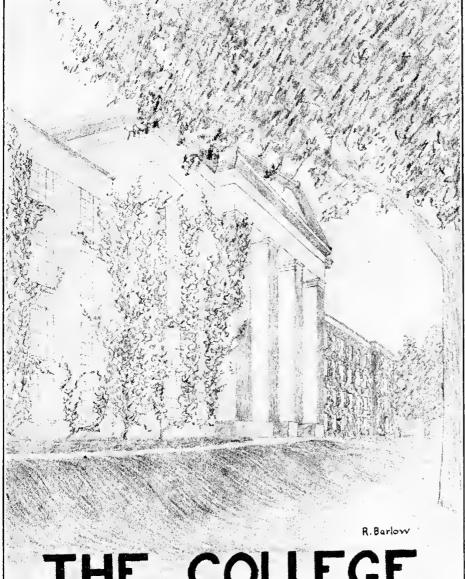

However. Professor Theiss has not confined his writings to magazine work, for since 1914, he has been busily engaged in writing books for boys, all of which are listed below: His Big Brother; In Camp at Fort Brady; Lumberjack Bob; The Camp Brady Wireless Patrol; The Secret Wireless; The Hidden Aerial; The Young Wireless Operator—As a Fire Patrol; The Young Wireless Operator—With the Oyster Fleet; The Young Wireless Operator—With the U. S. Coast Guard; A Champion of the Foothills: The Flume in the Mountain; Aloft in the Shenandoah II.

Seven of these titles have been placed on the approved list of supplementary readings by many mid-western states that annually select such a list for the elementary schools.

In 1903 Professor Theiss married Dr. Mary Bartol, a Bucknell graduate, then a professor in Rockford College, who for several years was editor of the Pi Beta Phi "Arrow." They have been collaborating in magazine work ever since.

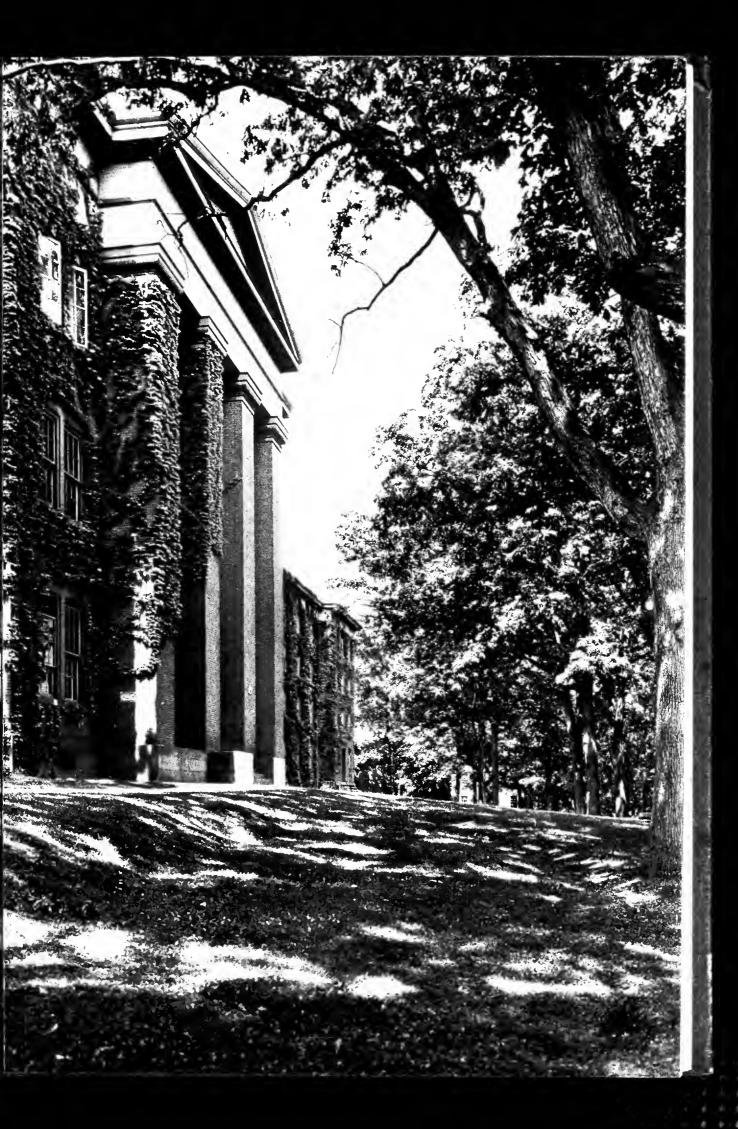

In 1924 he was given the degree of Doctor of Letters by Bucknell, and he returned to his Alma Mater as Professor of Journalism.

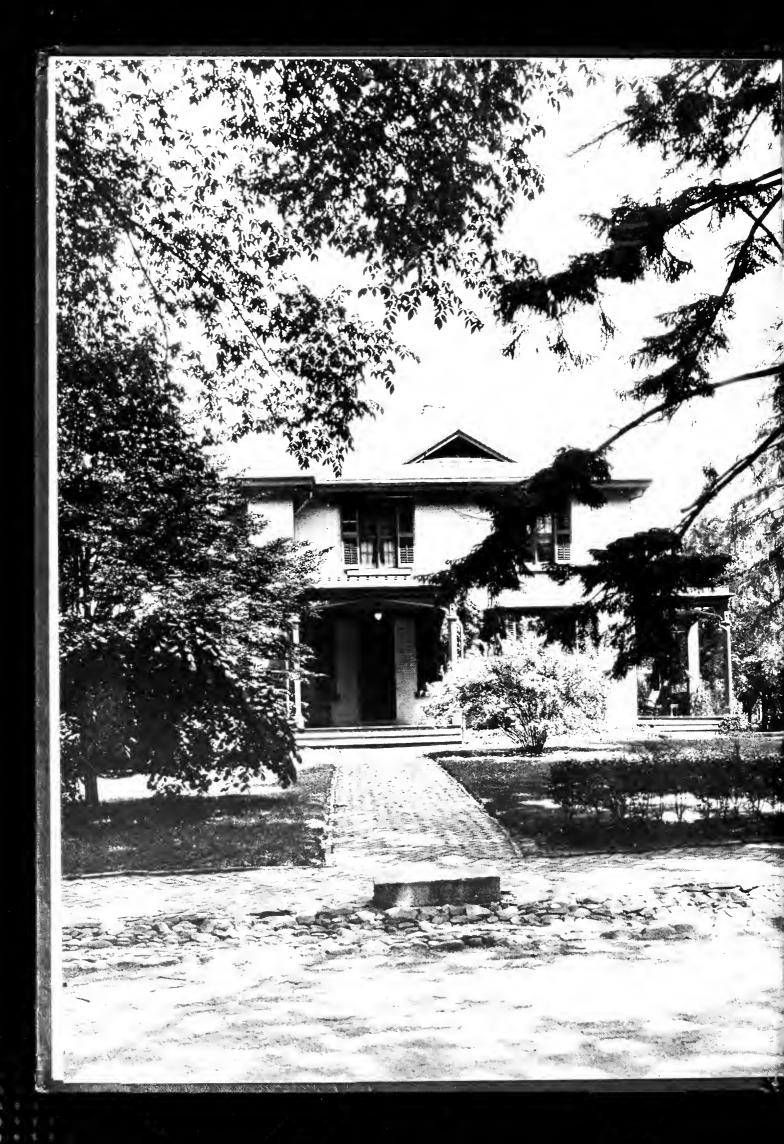

Professor Theiss is a member of Phi Gamma Delta, Pi Delta Epsilon. Theta Delta Tau, Sigma Tau Delta (professional English fraternity), and the society of Druids.

Senior Class History

IS a rare secret we divulge when we Seniors relate our experiences of four college years. Life at Bucknell for us has been a friendly contact with knowledge and the social world. We entered as blundering little "Freshies"—humble and obedient. There was no "Freshman Week" in our day, and we meekly followed the upperclassmen, awed by their apparent brilliance. (We were buds in the making). We gained recognition as the winners of the Soph-Frosh class scrap, and established our reputation when we emerged victorious in the Soph-Frosh football game.

As Sophomores we gloried in our wisdom—looking at the world through rose-colored glasses. (The buds were awakening, stirred by the quest for light and life).

We glean the significance of our third year in the expression, "Jolly Juniors." for those days were more than happy ones at B. U. We were here long enough to appreciate the beauty, goodness, and real purpose of our surroundings, and just long enough to realize that we were nearing the last lap of our educational journey here. In reality, we were preparing for a broader education in the outside world and this realization stimulated and spurred us on to greater deeds. (The power of knowledge was shedding its light on the half-opened buds).

Youth holds sway! 'Tis the king that reigns.' At last—Seniors—not old and gray, but the full blown flowers of the buds that were! Alert, truthful, honorable, kind—the generation of youths upon whom the critical world is wont to depend! The Class of 1927 is about to set out on life's rugged road to success, taking with it the friendly co-operative spirit of this institution, the crown of glory, the determination to win and prove leaders of men in order to be deemed worthy of the name: "A True Bucknellian."

JUNIORS

Junior Class History

YEARS and years of toil with perhaps a certain amount of pleasure and joy are before us—but often in those long years we will remember and will glory in the remembrance of our college days—yes. days of toil and worry—but the greatest days of all.

Freshman days—we were young, happy, brave, and perhaps somewhat bold. Little did we think of the morrow—each day was valued as gold. Days of study, days of fun, days of wonder and some days mingled all in one. We laughed when Freshman year was done.

Sophomore days—we dared to be free and were proud of that new-found freedom. These days were spent in study, athletics, and fun—but we wondered when Sophomore days were gone.

Junior days—we were now more powerful and had won a place. Duty showed her stern, dark countenance—but we conquered all—and the year was passed in pleasure, work, and play. New visions pointed to life's tomorrow and unwillingly but anxiously we dreamed when Junior Year was won.

Senior days—we cannot even surmise what they hold for us, but whatever they have for us—joys, sorrows, or laughter—we will stand in retrospect of the last days of that year. The world will lie before us—we will have visions and dreams sadtinged with thoughts of parting. And so our dreams and hopes of days to come will be sad but happy. Alma Mater, with thoughts of you.

Sophomore Class History

T IS unfortunate that it should fall to the lot of a Sophomore to write a history of the Sophomore class, for if, perchance, we should tell all its virtues the world is going to consider us extremely immodest, and if we don't, it will be generally conceded that there is nothing important enough to tell—even that we are the victims of that bane of all human existence, the inferiority complex.

We are the results of the beginnings of the Freshman Week system, and we have, up to the present time, succeeded in concealing rather cleverly the superiority of which that week made us conscious.

As Freshmen we always returned victorious, and as Sophomores we showed our spirit by winning the Frosh-Sophomore scrap, for the first time in seven years. What more need be said?

We have courage, faith, confidence, determination, and ability, respect for our faculty, sincere esteem for our Seniors, affection for our Juniors, consideration for our Freshmen, and, above all, love and loyalty for our Alma Mater.

Freshman Class History

NOTHER host, as Freshmen, joined the ranks of Bucknellians in September, 1926. During the first week we reigned supreme—lost ourselves in the corridors of Main, travelled the wrong paths—all without any embarrassment. So far we were free from the eagle eye of the upperclassman. While our lives were still our own, we elected Lee Wilson, Charles Stambaugh, Elizabeth Huxley, and John James to attend to such minor details as class scraps and financial difficulties. Such bliss was not ours for long however. The Sophomores and upperclassmen arrived in due season, and dinks, black ties, and later a profusion of green bands, flooded the Nevertheless, along with these hardships and, incidentally losing the usual scrap, we developed a successful football team, led by David Dayhoff, and later by George James, when injuries put "Dicky" out of commission.

You have gleaned the high lights of the life of the Freshman class. Thus far it has been a history worth recording. To keep up this reputation will be our task. We promise to be successful.

The constitution of this association is interpreted by representatives from each social group comprising an Executive Board of six seniors, five juniors, and four sophomores. Officers of the organization are a president, elected by popular vote from the senior class, a vice president from the senior class, a treasurer from the junior class, and a secretary from the sophomore class, all three elected by the Executive Board from their own number. Offices are held for one year.

The inter-class council was created in the spring of 1925 in order to relieve the higher council of the onerous duties of enforcing under-classmen rules. This lower council is composed of members elected from the student body. The senior class has two representatives: the junior class, four: the sophomore class, three: freshmen class, none elected, although the freshman president is a non-voting member of the council. The vice-president of the upper council is the president of this council, which meets every Monday night at 9:00 P.M. "when every freshman must be in his room."

Young Women's Christian Association

The Y. W. C. A. claims 1858 as its birth year. However, it was not made a national organization until 1906. As a part of the national Y. W. C. A. the local organization has always endeavored to meet its obligations both spiritually and financially.

The four officers of the cabinet of fourteen members are elected by the women's student body. The remaining ten are appointed by the retiring and newly elected president. The cabinet in whose power rests the executive work of the "Y. W." assumes its duty each April. A sub-cabinet, a Freshman commission, composed of thirteen members, is chosen by the cabinet under which it serves.

Men's Debating Team

Five years ago Bucknell felt that an unusually successful debating season had been held when two or three small, nearby colleges had been vanquished. The season of 1925-26, however, saw Bucknell teams winning thirteen out of fifteen contests—a record, so far as we know, equaled only by Bates College. The season of 1926-27 has yielded a victory over Oxford. Bucknell teams traveled as far south as the University of South Carolina, and as far north as the University of Boston. Debating, through the efforts of tireless workers, has come into its own as a true sport of intercollegiate character.

Frill and Frown

Frill and Frown, the women's dramatic club, was first known as The Girls' Dramatic Club which was organized on October 13, 1900. Since the beginning of the club it has been the policy to give plays, a policy which generally has its fruition in an annual play given by Frill and Frown. New members are elected during the first semester of the college year: the method employed is that of individual tryouts. A preliminary contest introduces all the candidates, and the final tryout decides admittance.

The Big Four Engineering Society

The Big Four Engineering Society is composed of the Mechanical, Civil. Electrical, and Chemical Engineering Societies. While each society retains its individuality, all work together for mutual benefit under the head of the Big Four Society.

The prime purpose of the society is to engage lecturers along the various industrial lines to come to Bucknell and speak before the society, thus broadening the outlook of the men and making them acquainted with outside industrial conditions. During the year the society holds several social functions. In 1926 the Engineering Ball was held in the auditorium of the New Engineering Building.

The governing body consists of a cabinet formed by two student and one faculty representative from each society.

American Institute of Electrical Engineers

On May 17, 1910 the board of directors of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers authorized the establishment of a branch at Lewisburg to be known as the Bucknell University Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Meetings of the Branch are held monthly, when lectures are delivered by men eminent in their profession, discussing practical application of problems that confront engineers. Many of these lectures are supplemented by motion pictures, so as to give the student a better conception of actual conditions.

Membership in the Branch is confined to resident students in full Junior standing in the Electrical Engineering Course and may be secured by making formal application to the Institute through the Associate member in charge of the Branch. An opportunity is also given the underclassmen to attend the meetings when special lectures of prominence in the profession are secured. This gives the student the privilege of hearing some of the best talent in the profession.

Chemical Engineering Society

The Bucknell Chemical Engineering Society is composed of students, enrolled in any course in engineering chemistry, who are interested in a more general understanding of the field of industrial chemistry and its applications. At meetings held once a month, papers are read by members of the society or by professors on some particular chemical process or a detail in the chemical industry. From time to time, speakers from the plants and industries appear before the society and present talks concerning the application of chemical methods to their particular product. The showing of educational films is a part of the program of the society for a further understanding of the application of chemistry in the industries.

The officers of the society are:

In 1920 a group of Bucknell men were granted a charter in Tau Kappa Alpha, the national honorary oratorical and debating fraternity. Membership is granted only for outstanding achievement in the field of oratory or debate, plus unquestioned standing in the active life of the college community. Wherever the key is found, it stands for recognized merit. The Bucknell chapter has been given honorable mention from the national headquarters for its outstanding efforts in the two fields over which Tau Kappa Alpha rules supreme.

The Druids

The national sophomore honorary society, the Druids, was installed at Bucknell on March 20, 1926. Membership in the society is gained through the selection of fifteen men of the freshman class at the close of the first year in college. The members are those who, through their activities, have gained recognition and popularity on the athletic field, in the class room, and in the general life of the campus. The seven other chapters are located at: Penn State, University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Washington and Jefferson, Dartmouth College, University of Delaware, and Lafayette college.

The local chapter came into being when the Bucknell chapter of Theta Delta Tau transferred to this newer organization.

The primary aim of the fraternity is that of general scholarship, in particular mathematical scholarship, and the secondary aim is the advancement of science and mathematics. The local chapter is chiefly an honorary mathematical scholarship fraternity, requiring junior standing, a minimum general scholarship average of 80, minimum mathematics average of 85, and a major or a minor in mathematics or in engineering.

MILDRED JEAN HEADINGS

ΜФΕ

McAlisterville. Pa.

Mu Phi Epsilon; A. B. Course; Piano; Theory.

"Mid" is always willing to entertain anyone. She will play the piano for you for hours, or will seek your fortune in her much used deck of cards. But most of all, we enjoy the friendly smile with which she greets us.

MARY KATHRYN HITE

ΜФΕ

"Mary"

Danville, Pa.

Mu Phi Epsilon; Piano; Voice: Theory; Supervisor's Course; String Orchestra Accompanist; Assistant to Instructor Hartz; L'Agenda Staff, Music School Editor.

The above list testifies to the fact that our Mary is an exceedingly busy and popular young lady. But, with all these duties she still finds time to entertain the football men—and occasionally a ministerial. And, speaking of her admirers, we wonder who sends the very numerous boxes of candy which she so generously shares with the Music Department?

Annareba"

Orangeville, Pa.

Piano; Voice; Supervisor's Course; Theory.

Annareba is quite musically inclined. In fact, her favorite song is "Let it Rain, Let it Snow"—mostly "Snow." She is planning to continue her education at Coombs, and we wish her all the success in the world.

SARA PARK MILLER

мфЕ

"Sully"

Schuylkill College

Elizabethville, Pa.

Oberlin Conservatory

Mu Phi Epsilon; Piano; Pipe-Organ; Voice; Counterpoint.

This versatile young lady needs no introduction to Bucknellians. "Sally's" ready smile and friendly attitude toward everyone with whom she has come in contact have endeared her to all in the short time she has been with us. And can she play the piano?

EDWIN DANIEL MOLL "E. Daniel"

Shamokin, Pa

Violin: String Orchestra.

"E. Daniel" hails from Shamokin but we can't hold that against him. Anyone who can play a violin with the soulstirring fervor, of which he is capable, deserves much praise. Bucknell is going to be proud of him in the future.

Rose Pearl Newman "Rosie"

DuPont, Pa.

Piano; Voice; Supervisor's Course; Theory.

To see "Rosie" working so conscientiously in the Music Department, one gets the impression that she is a quiet, demure, little lassie. But, you don't know "Rosie" as we do!

HARRIET JENKINS ROBBINS "Harriet"

Scranton, Pa.

Voice: Piano: Supervisor's Course: Theory.

Always a good student, jolly and full of fun—that's Harriet. Her many friends will surely miss her sunny personality and ready wit. Best wishes. Harriet!

HAZEL MARIE TRONELL "Muggsy"

Irving Seminary

Glasgow, Pa.

Piano; Voice; Supervisor's Course: Theory.

When in need of a true friend just call on Hazel. Her ability to scatter good cheer is unfailing. "Muggsy" came to us after a year at Irving. But, like Postum. "There's a reason"—and his name is "Guy."

ATHLETICS

John Plant

The appointment of John Plant, former physical director of Peddie School. Hightstown, N. J., to a similar position at Bucknell University, marks the initiation of a new athletic policy at the University. Each year it is more and more being realized in the leading universities of the country, that the days of specialized training for a few super-athletes is undesirable and absurd. With this rapidly changing view in mind. Bucknell chose Mr. Plant as the man who would be capable of installing a system of mass athletics, through which every Bucknell student could receive physical training according to his capabilities.

Throughout the East, "John" is known and looked up to as a real leader in the realm of sports. He not only has the enviable reputation of developing great athletes, but he is also thought of as a moulder of men of the finest character.

Already the influence of Mr. Plant has been keenly felt upon our campus. He has developed, from green material, one of the best basketball clubs that ever represented Bucknell. Fifteen victories and four defeats is the record of the first Plant-coached Bucknell basketball team. Along with the work of coaching varsity basketball and track. John has successfully organized compulsory freshmen "gym" classes, and an inter-fraternity soccer league.

Although handicapped greatly by an inadequate "gym" and poor equipment John is ever striving to develop his well-known system of mass athletics. With the cooperation of the student body under the leadership of John Plant as physical director, there is no doubt that there will be a new era of athletic development at Bucknell.

Bucknell 53; Blue Ridge o

Eight touchdowns, the fruit of an offensive which showed surprising power so early in the season, were just eight too many for the Blue Ridge College eleven of New Windsor, Maryland, which was tossed for a 53 to 0 defeat by the Bucknell varsity gridders in their opening game of the football schedule in the Memorial Stadium. September 25. The Orange and Blue showed its greatest scoring power in the final period when four of the eight touchdowns were made. Diehl accounted for two. Jones two, Halicki, Goodwin, McCleary, and Quinn each one. Trimmer booted three extra points and McCormick two.

Washington and Jefferson 17; Bucknell 2

Outplayed throughout the game, with the exception of a few minutes at the start of the fray, the Bucknell Bisons bowed before the mighty thrusts of a great Washington and Jefferson team by the score of 17 to 2 at College Field. Washington, Pennsylvania. October 2. Bucknell's only score came when Captain Amos. W. & J.'s great All-American fullback, after having fumbled the ball back of his goal line, was covered for a safety by Hulick. The score at the end of the first half was 3-0, Edwards of W. & J. having booted a place-kick in the second quarter.

Bucknell 13; George Washington o

As was usual in the first games of the season, the Bison backs carried off the greater share of the glory in the 13-0 victory over the George Washington University eleven in a game played in the Memorial Stadium on October 9. During the course of the afternoon the spectators witnessed many sensational bits of football—and as many poor ones. It was evident that the charges of Moran and Ingerton had not yet approached a full coordination between line and backfield. The outstanding features of the game were the powerful off-tackle thrusts of "Wally" Diehl, and a beautiful 45-yard pass for a touchdown, McCormick to Trimmer.

Villa Nova 7; Bucknell 3

The pupils of the "engineer" of the famous Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, Harry Stulhdreher, demonstrated effectively that they were apt patrons of his marvelous football knowledge, in downing "Uncle Charlie" Moran's Bucknell Bisons. 7-3, at Artillery Park, Wilkes-Barre, Saturday, October 16. The heroic march of the Bisons from the seventy-yard mark to the five-yard line in the last two and a half minutes of play was more than sensational. With four downs and five yards to go, the Bisons were able to use only two chances to break through the Villa Nova line when the umpire's whistle ended hostilities, snatching certain victory from Bucknell's grasp.

Bucknell o; Gettysburg o

A game featured by well-executed passes, sensational runs, and brilliant defensive plays resulted in a scoreless tie when the Bucknell Bisons and the Gettysburg Bullets met on the latter's battlefield. Saturday, October 23, before a large homecoming crowd. Bucknell tallied one touchdown, only to have it ruled illegal by the referee. Bucknell gained 13 first downs, Gettysburg 9. Bucknell also had the edge in punting. Gettysburg showed to advantage in running back the ball. While the forward pass attack was used by both teams, the Orange and Blue gained the most ground by the aerial route.

Haskell Indians 36; Bucknell o

The mighty Indians of the Haskell Reservation at Lawrence. Kansas, attained magnificent heights in adding the Bucknell Bison's gory scalp to a belt of seven victories, Saturday. October 30. in a game which dedicated the handsome Haskell Stadium before 12.000 tribesmen from all sections of the United States. The final score was 36-0. The Orange and Blue warriors were completely outclassed by the great Hanley machine.

The game also helped toward the establishment of a world's record for scoring in a single year. "Mazey" McClain, fleet redskin halfback, accounted for two touchdowns, two points after them, and a goal from placement, bringing his total of points for the season to 208.

Bucknell 27; Lehigh o

A Homecoming Day was never gayer—banners flying, crowds cheering, the band playing, the sun shining, and the frosh entertaining—all adding to the color of the day. Before a crowd of 8.000, many of whom were alumni, the Bucknell team, led by the formidable "Wally" Diehl, who scored all four touchdowns, smothered Lehigh by a 27 to 0 score, in Memorial Stadium on Saturday, November 2. Almost at will the Bison backs gained through the Lehigh line, which was completely overpowered by the Orange and Blue forward men. Between halves the Bucknell Band played in memory of Walter Camp, the "Father of Football."

Penn State 9; Bucknell o

The Bucknell Bisons proved to be a 9-0 morsel for the superior Nittany Lions of Penn State in the home team's Pennsylvania Day game at State College. Saturday, November 13. The Orange and Blue warriors facing the Blue and White for the first time since 1919, fought gamely for a victory that would have made the season a success. but State's resourceful gridders would not be denied. "Wally" Diehl was superb in defeat. On every offensive threat. Diehl was in the thick of it. He was also a tower of strength on the defense. The Penn State men recognized his ability, and in broadcasting the result of the game announced that "Penn State Defeated Diehl, 9-0."

Western Maryland 40; Bucknell o

Flashing the most effective attack Bucknell had been called upon to face this year. Western Maryland ran wild through a tired and worn Bison team for a total of six touchdowns and a 40-0 score. Saturday. November 20, in the Memorial Stadium. So completely were the Bisons outclassed that they were unable to register a single first down. Led by "Greasy" Neal. Coach Harlow's "Green Terror" unleashed a running and passing attack which swept the Bisons off their feet. Neal alone accounted for four touchdowns. Superb in defeat was "Wally" Diehl, perhaps the greatest football player in Bucknell history. His smashing defensive play was all that prevented an even larger score.

Bucknell 13; Dickinson 6

The sensational playing of "Wally" Diehl, Bucknell's backfield ace, gave the Bisons a hard but well earned victory, 13-6, over the Dickinson College eleven, in the traditional battle between the two teams, on the Island Park gridiron at Harrisburg, Saturday, November 27. As a whole, the entire Bucknell team played a great defensive and offensive game and was well deserving of the laurels. Following the game, which marked the final appearance of a Moran-coached eleven. "Wally" Diehl's mates paid a tribute to his great all-round work and elected him to the captaincy of the 1927 team.

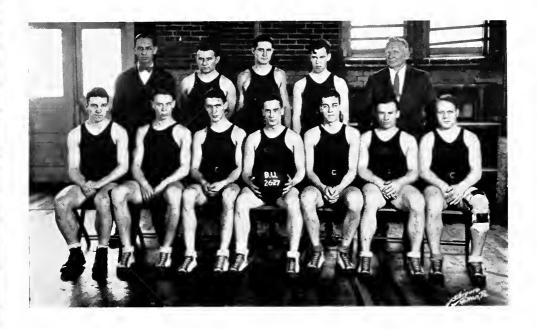

Walter Diehl

Several years ago during the last years of Coach "Pete" Reynolds' coaching regime. Bucknell had a husky chap playing fullback, Arda Bowser. So great was the skill and accomplishment of Bowser on the gridiron, that more than one football judge made the statement that Bucknell would never again see his equal. Yet only last year his equal as a football of the statement of the stat last year his equal as a football star arose through the dark clouds of defeat and a mediocre season, in the dynamic person of Walter Diehl, the human dreadnaught on mediocre season, in the dynamic person of Walter Diehl, the human dreadnaught on the Bucknell football squad, and one of the best backfield men in the college world today. How well Diehl's ability was respected by expert football critics was shown, when the Mount Carmel star was chosen to accompany an All Star Eastern team to the Pacific coast to play in the annual East-West charity game at San Francisco. Diehl's work was so exceptional that Coach "Bill" Ingram did not hesitate to invite him to make the trip once more next December (1927).

So unusual was "Wally's" football record, and so well liked was he personally, that his election to the captaincy of the 1927 Bucknell team was unanimous. To be elected unanimously by his mates was a splendid tribute to Walter, as it is almost unprecedented here at Bucknell. It is only natural that "Wally" should be the recipient of such an unusual bonor, for it is only enough to say that his remarkable merit as a football player reaches to the highest plane of football accomplishment that it is as a football player reaches to the highest plane of football accomplishment that it is possible to find anywhere. Bucknell is proud of Walter and the entire college believes he will make as good a leader as he has made a player in the past three years.

JOHN D. PLANT		. Coach

The 1926-27 basketball season marked the coming of John D. Plant as Bucknell's coach, and the result was a highly successfully year. With Captain Stanley McCaskey, of last year's squad, as a nucleus and four members of the brilliant 1925-26 freshman team to complete the quintette, the Orange and Blue representatives formed a well-drilled, fast, and resourceful outfit. "Arch" Seiler, elongated center, had a wonderful season and rated with the leading scorers of collegiate basketball, seldom scoring less than 10 points and often as many as 20 in a single contest. Captain McCaskey and Edward Halicki were placed at the offensive positions, while "Bernie" Klosterman and Woodring were the defensive mainstays. Mitchell, Frable, Karmilowicz, McCormick, and Maré rounded out the squad.

Fourteen victories and four defeats was the season's record. Duquesne. Penn State, Temple, and Villa Nova were the four teams that defeated Plant's protegés.

Klosterman suffered a broken wrist early in February, and was unable to play during the remainder of the season.

Freshman Basketball

H Montgomery Marsh Jr. Donald Kammire John D. Plant Manager Captain Coach

Four victories, five defeats, and one tie game were attained by the Bucknell University "frosh" quintette during the course of the 1926-27 season. Two of the defeats, those at the hands of Dickinson and Gettysburg, were offset by victories in return games. The most severe drubbing of the year was inflicted by the Bucknell Sophomores, who with four Varsity players in their cast, posted a 70-31 win.

The Orange and Blue yearlings had as a feature member of their cast one Ramon Philip, who won praise from every quarter by his remarkable skill in handling and passing the ball. Philip was instrumental in every freshman victory and is figured as a certain choice for the 1927-28 Varsity squad. "Hen" Thomas and W. Wadsworth did stellar work at the defensive positions for the yearlings. Donald Kammire, who captained the team, held down his pivot post in fine style, while "Cal" Smith was one of the leading scorers of the year, showing his best work in swishing the net on short-distance shots. Ellor, Bennett, Restelli, and H. Wadsworth rounded out the 1930 squad.

Baseball Summary

Starting the season of 1926 rather early. Bucknell's baseball squad went south in the latter part of March for a series of four games with Southern teams. Due to the fact that winter snows had lingered in Lewisburg, the team had had practically no pre-season practice, and so got off to an inauspicious start, dropping games to Georgetown, Catholic University, and the Quantico Marines on this trip. The game scheduled with the "Middies" at Annapolis was called on account of rain.

Soon after returning from this trip the club lost close games to Juniata and Williamsport of the New York-Pennsylvania League. During the latter part of April the team hit their stride in fine style, and won seven of the last eight games on the card. Penn State was twice defeated, once on New Beaver Field and once at the Memorial Stadium, the latter game being the last of the season and a Commencement Week event.

Shorts, Gaskill, Tuck. McCleary, and Murphy all contributed consistent stickwork throughout the season, and Murphy was easily the stellar moundsman of the club.

Despite a slow start, the club presented a very creditable record, scoring eight wins out of fifteen starts, two games having been called because of unfavorable weather.

Track

Four defeats and no victories were the outcome of the varsity track and field season of 1926. Such a record would generally indicate a very unsuccessful season, but this was not the case with the Orange and Blue trackmen. Three new college (Bucknell) records were established: Diebl in the shot put: Trimmer in the low hurdles: Frable in the javelin throw.

At the Central Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Meet. Bucknell made a strong bid for first honors, with Trimmer, Diehl, McClune, Frable, and Hitchens carrying off the laurels in the field events. However, in the track events only three points were made, which proved too great a handicap for the Bisons to top their opponents. Nevertheless Bucknell finished but a few points in the rear of the winning Dickinson team.

The Bucknell Infirmary for Men

The Bucknell infirmary for men owes its being largely to the vision and diligent work of President Emory W. Hunt. For years sick students had to make the best of it in their dorm rooms, with no chance for proper diet or nursing.

The infirmary idea was planned several years ago, but difficulties always seemed to block the project. Finally the University purchased the brick residence on the east campus, occupied at that time by the Bucknell chapter of the Kappa Delta Rho fraternity. In 1926 the time seemed ripe to initiate the new project. Dr. Lester P. Fowle, a Bucknellian, ex-'20, was engaged, and he personally supervised the equipping of this new home for ailing collegians, the first patient being received in September.

Fittings of the infirmary are thoroughly modern. On the first floor is the large consultation room. In addition to the usual equipment of surgical and therapeutic instruments it contains a new Castle electric sterilizer, and a McKesson Special gas machine equipped with both nitrous oxide and ether for minor operations.

Why College Students Commit Suicide

- 1. You never can tell the depth of the grade by the length of the face on the professor.
- 2. A wandering mind will not get very far.
- 3. A cut a day keeps the diploma away.
- 4. Never buy a book you can steal from your roommate.
- 5. The profs flunk them that flunk themselves.
- 6. Never count your "A's" before the grades come out.
- 7. Early to leave, early to rise, Gives you a black look from the prof's eyes.
- 8. The road of a college education paves the way to a fifty-dollar a month position.
- 9. The grade is as the professor does.
- 10. Study, cram, and be wise, for tomorrow we take a quiz.
- 11. You can't squeeze an "A" out of a professor, nor yet the heart out of a gold digger.
- 12. A roving mind gathers no knowledge.
- 13. Conditions come and students go.

Acknowledgments

In this, the thirty-fifth edition of L'Agenda, no startling innovations have been attempted—in fact, most of our efforts have been toward making L'Agenda an interesting as well as an accurate transcript of life at Bucknell. Despite the greatest of care, errors will creep into any such undertaking as is involved in the compilation of this 260-page volume. Consequently we ask your indulgence for any mistakes that may be in the book, for we assure you that we have striven diligently for accuracy.

Now that the book is ready for the press, the staff finds difficulty in acknowledging adequately its appreciation to those who have helped with this year book. To Professor Theiss, who has pored over the proofs until the wee sma' hours of the mornings, we are deeply indebted. To Mr. G. Grant Painter, of the Williamsport Printing and Binding Company, who has been an ever-present guide and adviser, we are deeply thankful. To White Studios, we extend our appreciation for the photography.

To all others, we repeat our sincere thanks, and with this we finish our labors on L'Agenda.

Ye Sophomore Hatte

While swarthy beaux and dusky belles of palm-fringed Samoan Isles strut the strand in imported, and slightly mussed pants, shirts, gowns, and tuxedos discarded by philanthropic Baptists and Methodists of America, it is evident to any observer, possessed of a normal 20-20 optic perspective, that all the old hats of the country, discarded by a progressive citizenry, come to a glorious old age on the brows of college sophomores.

The celluloid spaces of the desert west are famed for the galloping sombrero that saves little Lucile Lovely from the wicked red-skins. The erags and lochs of Scotia bob with the dashing tam-o-shanter. Misers, clutching their gold, protect their bald pates with small black pancakes that defy assertive mosquitoes. The amorous Arab with his greasy fez, the English busby, the walrus nightcap of the ice-bound Eskimo, all make for variety in occipital adornment—but it takes a puggarce of sophomoric phyla to demonstrate the last, final, and startling word in chapeaux.

Mathematically, the formula for a second-year sun-strainer might be expressed as "x" plus "y" equals "z" a potent mixture of age, decrepitude with a fearful resultant ensemble. (In most cases "y" is raised to the nth power).

Naturally the ravaging hands of Father Time and Mother Nature add gloriously to the "curing" and ripening of these sophomore shakes, but in the event that quick results are desired, and time is precious, the ardent student who wishes the utmost in cagey headgear will do well to follow this formula:

- 1. Take a new hat (preferably an $8 Knox) and bait it with cheese and bacon. Leave in the pantry over night exposed to the mandibular pleasantries of hungry rodents. This imparts a fuzzy desquamation that forms a fitting background for the next step.
- 2. During the peak hours of motor traffic, take the hat and earelessly deposit it in the wheel tracks on Market Street. This treatment

"Dear me, Clytemnestra, why do you children always want to hear those awful tales about these immoral college people, when you should still be thrilled to hear about Cinderella and Puss-in-Boots? Now in my day—what's that, Leander? You've heard before how I read 'His Hour' until I was twenty when I was given a copy of Sherwood Anderson! Well, if you have heard it before, Leander, you certainly have made a few errors in repeating it, because I will have you understand, I never read those horrid books. It was 'The Children's Hour' and Hans Christian Anderson that I read. Now if you children will just stop trying to blow rings (in my day, I blew soap bubbles) and smoke those Tarrytons in the proper way, Mother will read this story from 'The Toldem Book' called 'Who Made College Professors and How Could They?' It is a story written by one of the most enterprising dilligentte of the day. I'll not tell you who wrote it because I want you to guess at the end. Dear me, my old Lit. Professor, (Now, I didn't mean lit professor, that way, Leander—I meant my Literature Professor, dear,) well, he would be so glad to know that I am bringing my children up to really appreciate literature in the cultured way. He always used to give us a spot passage in exams and ask us who wrote it and how in the world he got away with it, and if we answered Shakespeare and 99.94% pure crust, he gave us an "A" in the course. Well, this story is by a man whose initials begin with H and rhyme with durst--you know, 'Thou durst not.' What is that Clytemnestra? Why-why that's Anglo-Saxon, of course. And how do I know? Why, dearic, Mamma's had a college education. Absolutely, Clytemnestra, a college education does necessarily mean that you know everything, and if you don't stop asking such pert questions, I'll just turn on the radio and let you listen to one of those bed-time stories instead of reading you this nice juicy one about a college professor.

"It says here, children, that 'When you mention a college professor, that you might as well go on speaking about college, because a college is a kind of professor anyway, and everything about a college professes." Oh, you don't like the style, Clytemnestra? Well, you simply must not read any more of those Delineation pattern books. You are getting entirely too fussy about the style lately, and I won't have it. You must look at the idea and not at the hang of the thing. Well, to continue, 'In college, the professors all profess to be dry so that they can hold their positions and dignity, but in reality they all vote the wet ticket anyway, and it has been rumored that at a time like symposiums, for example, their liquid capacity is simply insatiable.'

"Symposiums, Leander? That is—that is, Leander, I think you'd better wait a few years. You are much too young to hear about that now. If you'll ask your father a few years from now, he'll tell you, but I'm afraid I can't just yet. Let us go on. Even the campus professes. It professes to have about it the green freshness of a spring wood, but that is really only the heads of the Freshmen going about. That is a very subtle phrase, Clytemnestra. I want you to take notice to that. What's that? That joke has not been cracked in every college humorous magazine in the country since the time when I went to school, and even if it has, Clytemnestra, that only goes to show that it is standard and classic. I guess I know good literature when I see it, even if I did go to college a good many years before you will. You children interrupt me entirely too often.

"The greatest professors about college, however, are the students, and of course, most of them are stewdents, but they are very modest about it; they wouldn't breathe it to a soul. You'd really be surprised at the high death rate among college students for over-study, cramming, and hydrophobia. Besides all this, you read about so many college suicides. The students only profess to be suicides, because they are really heroes. It seems that some horrid person by the name of Bootlegger inhabits college towns and all nearby towns, and he manufactures a liquid which is often fatal to the consumer. The college students are so magnanimous that they go about tasting the vile stuff in order to ascertain if it is good, because some poor ignorant fellow is likely to get hold of it and be poisoned. Believe me or not, but it oft times kills even the college students themselves, who die a great, glorious, unknown, unhonored, and unsung death in the true cause of humanity. More than this, the college students profess to be bright, but their brilliance is only like the sun shining over a bluff.

"You suppose that is subtle, too, Clytemnestra? Dear, dear, you are learning to see things like that, aren't you, dear? I'm so glad I'm really accomplishing something for your education. Why Clytie! Where in the world did you learn such words? Leander, where did you hear things like that to teach to your sister, and what, pray, was their significance at this point? Leander, will you put away that flask while Mother reads?

"And the students profess to be artistic, too, but the poor dears have only a very primitive taste in art, for they think that a red and green Ford together with an orange sweater and sky-blue socks and an old torn tan hat with a purple band are a beautiful bit of collegiate old masters. When they grow up, they will learn that these colors are all contained in the color chart that they learned when they were in the first grade."

"And listen to this, Leander and Clytenmestra. Herein lies the cleverness of the piece. What! Of course, I said it was clever. If I weren't so near the end I'd turn that radio on this minute. The students profess to be wicked, oh, just painfully, terribly wicked—just ever so wicked, but if the truth were known, and they could see their fathers as they were when they were young, the modern students would simply die of shame, because their fathers had them beat at being wicked by all odds, and the poor children today are just foolishly slow and harmless in comparison. Ay, that's the rub.

"Clytemnestra! Leander! Will you wake up? Of course, that wasn't a fairy story."

Apropos of Disguises!

Co-incident with the chirping of the first robin, and the planting of sweet peas on St. Patrick's day, there appears upon the upper facade of many a senior a burgeoning forth of what might be suspected as a sly attempt at facial forestry. At first the outgrowth is soft, and barely visible under the Klieg lights. But as time feverishly flits and the first June bug blunders into the parlor the new adornment takes definite shape and form, while frenzied grooming for graduation day takes place.

This novel idea of proclaiming to mankind one's supply of cerebral static via follicular cultivation is not new. For years the adventurous male has fought and wooed behind the protecting first line entanglements that moustaches, whiskers, and sideburns afford. Apt students of English Lit., from their literary explorations of the lives of great writers, well know that the standing of any old and famous poet or novelist depends largely upon the profusion of his oral cilia. The more beard, the better the poetry. Boys like Byron had tough sledding because of their stream-like faces. Beards do imply a saint-liness of character.

Just why seniors raise moustaches we know not, but they ought to receive scholastic credit for them. Properly to cultivate and coax and tease along the tender sprouts is worth at least one hour's credit a semester. Many a hurried senior, about to make a date, or an 8 o'clock class, or just merely get up, has in a moment of forgetfulness swiped the saber a bit too far and produced a destruction of the bilateral symmetry so desired.

At present the Dr. West type of moustache is the model most preferred, and can be cleaned with dental floss. However, it is not the most picturesque. Moustaches are capable of being moulded into so many varied and fanciful patterns that we must decry the lack of originality displayed. Architecturally speaking we prefer the Greek school—a wide flowing curve, with a Corinthian motif at each tip. Another pleasing pattern is that borrowed from the sword-fish, thus protecting the wearer from the onslaughts of annoying females. Another pattern, which unfortunately requires special dining equipment in the form of a coal-scuttle coffee cup, is that fashioned after the weeping willow upon the banks of Buffalo Creek. Any senior, unusually well-shod with gold teeth, and wishing to keep hidden his cache of dental wealth will prefer the latter mode.

A Romantic Interlude

"Yes, sir," said Uncle Abram Ashley Pollywiggle, most affectionately called "Uncle Abe" by his contingent clientele in Slateville, "when I was in college, I was the fastest man there, and I don't mean that was just because I played fast and loose with all the track teams in the country. Why, I can remember running against a Yale lock one night when I couldn't seem to find the right barn for my horse and carriage. Yes, sir! said Uncle Abe again, and the small boys drew up their chairs around the hero and waited for his forthcoming story.

Since old Grandpa Samuels had headed for his Happy Battle-ground some seven years ago, Uncle Abe, the only college graduate in the township, took advantage of all this fuss made about the young college people and told stories of Evolution instead of Revolution to all the young scamps and old idlers of Slateville. Uncle Abe, by the way, was the most able and renowned lawyer in the place, although, of course, he was the only one, besides being justice of the peace, a deacon in the church, and proprietor of the general store. When Uncle Abe said "Yes, sir," everybody knew that he was about to begin one of his naughty yarns. Although he was a deacon and a very highly respected citizen, he often indulged in telling frisky stories like the following.

"In my day," said Uncle Abe, "I was the fastest man in college. The co-eds used to knock each other down in an effort to get a seat next to me in classes, and it finally became necessary for the professor to seat us alphabetically in order to avoid the rush. The poor co-eds fairly wept the day he did that, because that put Jeremiah Salters on one side of me and cross-eyed Poll Danley on the other. Well, I got tired of making eyes at all the bold girls after a while. And many of them were very bold. Red-headed Maggie, for example, used to wink at me every day, and Maisie always smiled at me and lifted the hem of her skirt almost an inch from the floor when she walked up the steps. There was a blonde by the name of Sadie who even went so far as to hold my hand one evening when I took her for a ride. Well,

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE IN PRINTING

ALL artists do not create pictures of equal merit. All composers do not conceive music of equal beauty and melody. All writers are not equally skilled in choosing and using themes and words.

Nor is all PRINTING alike. Superior printing is not alone a matter of equipment or of materials, of time or even of skill. Rather it is a combination of these and a great many more.

To combine all our facilities to truly produce SUPERIOR PRINTING is the everyday aim of this organization.

as I said, I got tired of these bold girls and turned my fancy to a sweet modest little flower by the name of Mary Ann. Mary Ann is married now to a Senator, and she's writing confessions for a living. Well, I hung around Mary Ann for almost a week, and then I finally got up nerve to talk to her.. The fellows thought I was a whiz, because Bart Bunion had made eyes at Mayme Eister for almost a year before he ever spoke a word. Well, after I had taken Mary Ann to three spelling bees and a social (fast work was my motto) I took Mary Ann out one night and we went for a walk down by the river where there is a little bench and a big tree, and I advanced so far in her affections that she even let me carve our initials together on that tree. If you don't believe me, the next time you get to Charlesburg, you just go and look. Well, we stayed till half-past eight, and when we came back, the door of her dormitory was locked and I had to boost her in the window. Do you know, I don't believe the college boys and girls of today have so much fun or do such devilish things as I used to. I was some fellow in my day."
